LAND USE IN FRANCE IN THE TRANSITION TO AGRARIAN CAPITALISM

(the second half of the eighteenth century)

Summary

Actuality of theme is largely conditioned by the vagueness of social-economic relations, in particular on a village, and in modern Ukraine. They are consonant to those problems that decided in France of the second half of XVIII of century in a great deal, id est in the period of becoming of agrarian capitalism. The aim of this research consists in that in organic combination to analyse processes that took place in of that time French society on the whole and transformation of the system and principles of landownership and land-tenure. Research came true on the basis of method of concretely-historical analysis, at the observance of principles of priority of historical fact, objectivity, critical attitude toward a historical source. On results research there are grounds to assert that unsolvedness of peasant question, in particular rights on earth and freedoms of the use by her, became one of sufficient causes, that stipulated Large France revolution of end of XVIII of century. Revolution, that untied contradictions analysis of that and defined the rich in content canvas of the offered publication.
